

Inspire hosts the Norwich Science Café throughout the year at 7.30pm in The Maddermarket Theatre Bar

Norwich

Science Café

Informal discussion of science issues & ideas in a comfortable cafe setting - free admission & all welcome

What is the role of basic scientific research?

given by Anastasia Sobolewski from the Institute of Food Research

17th March 2010

7.30pm

The Maddermarket Theatre Bar,
Norwich

FREE to attend and no need to book

We are generally well informed regarding human clinical trials and research on new drugs. However, many of these drugs or basic ideas for these treatments began their journey many years ago in academic institutions or within companies conducting basic research. A huge amount of time, effort and money is invested in basic research. This Science café will introduce the techniques and approaches used in basic research and discuss its impact and relevance on future drug treatments.

IFR in the City

INSPIRE
DISCOVER
CENTRE